

Unitisation and Controlled Assessment

Unitisation

Benefits For You

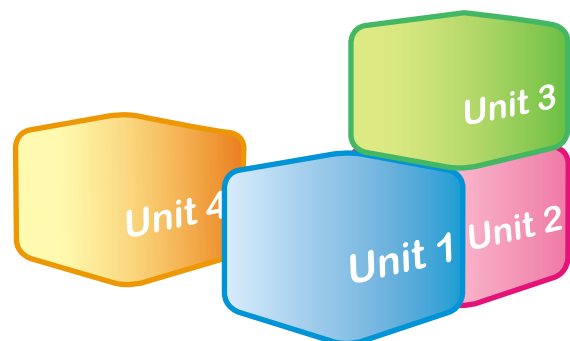

Allows you to enter your students for elements of the assessment before the terminal examination

Gives you the option of designing your teaching so that first year work is accredited, which could be motivational to your students

Benefits For Your Learners

Offers resit opportunities to improve performance

Gives learners the possibility of completing part of the assessment in advance, freeing up time in the final year of study

Controlled Assessment

Benefits For You

Gives greater control over authentication of coursework

Defines the time limits for assessment

In some cases we set the tasks

Benefits For Your Learners

Helps define the time needed to be spent on controlled assessment

Creates a more even assessment based on candidate performance
